

BANKS OF DIXON TO CLOSE AT 3 O'CLOCK

SHORTER HOURS, EFFECTIVE ON JULY 5, DECIDED ON BY DIRECTORS.

IN KEEPING WITH PROGRESS

Other Cities Have Adopted Plan—
Large Business Makes It Desirable.

After careful investigation the directors and officials of the three Dixon banks have decided to close the institutions each day at 3 o'clock instead of 4 o'clock, commencing July 5 next.

In this decision the patrons of the banks were considered, the officials believing that none would object seriously and that it would work out satisfactorily to all concerned.

The plan agreed upon is in line with banking hours in force in Rochelle, Sycamore, Belvidere, DeKalb and Geneva, where the plan has been adopted and is proving satisfactory.

What It Means.

Closing a bank at 3 instead of 4 o'clock does not mean the clerk gets more recreation; it gives more time for closing up work before 6 o'clock. Closing a bank at 4 o'clock does not imply that the employee completes his day's work then. He is often found at work over his books until 6 and often 7 o'clock before completing work.

In the larger cities banking institutions close at 3 o'clock and in some instances at 2 o'clock, and this has been the established rule for many years.

The smaller cities in adopting the 3 o'clock rule are simply keeping in line with progress and the methods of larger cities.

It has always been the policy of the bank officials of Dixon to please the business people and the farmers and they trust that the rule about to become effective will meet with the approval of all concerned.

Great Business.

Another phase of the proposition is the fact that during the last five years the volume of business done in Dixon has increased wonderfully and it has become absolutely necessary to put in force the 3 o'clock closing rule. By closing one hour earlier each day it gives the bank employee an opportunity to do better and more effective work for the bank and its patrons, thus the bank and its customers will get much better results.

In this school Edith Taylor has been neither absent nor tardy for three years and Harvey Wendel has been neither absent nor tardy since he began to attend school three years ago. Ralph Haefner has a perfect record for seven years. There has been no case of tardiness in this school for eight years.

FUNERAL FRIDAY AFTERNOON

Deceased, Who Was 82 Years of Age,
Lived In Lee County
Since 1857.

Mrs. Wilson Dysart died at the home of her daughter, Mrs. W. W. Woolley, 415 North Dement avenue, about midnight June 27, after seven weeks' illness.

Miss Frances Wallace was born in Huntington county, Pa., August 31, 1834. She was married to Wilson Dysart January 18, 1853 and to this union twelve children were born, of whom three died in infancy; Annie wife of C. B. Crawford, died Dec. 8, 1887; Warren P., Luverne, Minn.; Joseph W., Milroy, Minn.; Edith Countryman, Edgar, Neb.; Ernest S., Nachusa, Ill.; Mrs. Clarinda Woolley, Mrs. John Herbst, M. Lee, and Edward E., all of Dixon, survive.

There are eleven grandchildren and two great grandchildren. Mrs. Dysart was also survived by three brothers and two sisters, who reside in Ohio and Pennsylvania.

Her husband died Aug. 12, 1901. Mr. and Mrs. Dysart came to Illinois in the spring of 1857 and nearly all the time since have lived in Nachusa township, where they were prominent, successful and happy.

Mrs. Dysart was possessed of the qualities that make a good wife, a faithful mother and devoted friend. Her life was an open book and her charitable deeds were numerous. All who knew her loved and respected her. To her children she was a true adviser and they in turn looked to her as their companion. For seven or more years she made her home with her daughter, Mrs. Woolley, and her presence will be missed in that home for, even at her advanced age she was her daughter's close companion and was always happy when she could visit the homes of her children, which she often did.

Everything possible was done by her children to make her life comfortable and happy.

The funeral services will be held Friday at 2 p. m. at the home of Mrs. Woolley. Burial will be at the Dunkard cemetery on the Franklin Grove road. Rev. S. S. Cryor, former pastor of the First Presbyterian church of this city, now of El Paso, Ill., will be the officiating clergyman.

STATUE OF LIBERTY FUND STARTS HERE

SUBSCRIPTION BLANKS RECEIVED BY LOCAL TREASURER YONTS.

The Statue of Liberty, product of international sentiment and a monument of American ideals, designed for a welcoming beacon at the gateway of the republic, stands indistinguishable at night in New York harbor. Its majestic outline becomes after dark a mere shadowed bulk, even the flare of its puny torch losing distinctness in the multitude of harbor lights and illuminated towers of Manhattan.

The final $100,000 to complete the pedestal bearing the statue, gift to the people of this country of 400,000 poor people of France, was collected by popular subscription of 120,000 Americans in 1885 by the New York World. This same newspaper today is gathering by similar means a fund of $30,000 with which is to be installed a lighting plant to throw at night into compelling relief "Liberty Enlightening the World."

Electrical engineers and lighting experts have perfected plans for a system of concealed projected illumination which will display to full advantage the grace and grandeur of the statue. Special legislation by congress assures acceptance of the fund and perpetual maintenance by the federal government of Liberty's night illumination.

The help of everyone is needed. Large contributions are not sought, but there must be a great many small ones if the lighting of Liberty is to be an act of popular devotion to American ideals. The campaign is being conducted throughout the country and C. B. Yonts, Contract Agent of the I. N. U., has been made local treasurer. Subscription blanks have been received, and one of these can be found at the Telegraph office.

MEXICO PROTESTS SOLDIERS ACTS

(Associated Press)
Washington, June 28—Special U. S. Agent Rodgers, who is in Mexico City, in a telegram of two sentences, dated yesterday, said he expected to be handed today Carranza's reply to the American note demanding the release of 23 American soldiers taken prisoner at Carrizal and now confined in the penitentiary at Chihuahua City.

Carranza's delay in replying is believed to be due largely to his hope to have the South and Central American countries agree fully to his course before taking final action.

MAY BE INVESTIGATING CAUSES OF CARRIZAL FIGHT

The message said it is believed the Mexican authorities are investigating the Carrizal affair, but there is no indication what the reply will be.

RELEASE OF SOLDIERS IS PARAMOUNT ISSUE NOW

If the reply is unsatisfactory Wilson is determined to go before congress, probably tomorrow, and ask authority to rescue the prisoners by force. Indications were that congress will comply with the request in case the president finds it necessary to send an armed expedition to Chihuahua. All questions, including possible mediation, are regarded subsidiary to that of freeing the prisoners.

MEXICO PROTESTS TO U. S. AGAINST OUTRAGES

A note protesting against outrages against Mexican citizens alleged to have been committed by members of the American force of 3000 marching from San Geronimo toward Valle, has been sent to the state department by the Mexican ambassador under instructions from Carranza.

ASKS THAT AMERICAN OFFICERS BE PUNISHED

Vigorous complaint against the alleged arrest and mistreatment of 300 civilians at La Cruz is registered in the note, with the request that the officers responsible be punished and steps be taken to prevent its recurrence.

BULLETIN (Associated Press)

Springfield, June 28—At 1:15 o'clock this afternoon the First Infantry was ordered to entrain for the border.

The entrainment of the First Infantry will probably not be completed until tonight, while the Second and Seventh Infantry will probably not be able to get away before tomorrow morning. First cavalry will likely start tomorrow night. A meeting of the commanders of all the units has been called, at which they will be given final instructions.

BULLETIN

Chicago, June 28—General Barry, commander of the Central department, issued orders for the immediate movement to the border of all the units of the Illinois, Missouri, Kansas and Wisconsin guards which are "reasonably ready."

The Illinois cavalry will go to Brownsville and all other troops go to San Antonio.

FINE QUARTERS.

San Antonio, June 28—It is believed the Illinois guardsmen will be quartered in the citizens' training camp near Fort Sam Houston, where they will be wrapped in luxury compared with other guardsmen. The civilian camp will end June 30. It is a model one equipped with everything known to military science.

(Associated Press)

Springfield, June 28—Lieut. Col. Lewis, chief of mustering staff, has received a telegram from Gen. Barry of Chicago, commander of the Central department, U. S. A., ordering a temporary halt in mustering and an immediate inventory of units already mustered.

The First, Second and Seventh Infantry and the First cavalry have already been mustered in. The Third, Fourth and Eighth regiments and three batteries of artillery were to have been mustered in today.

Contemplate Organization Of Volunteer Reserve In Country

Military men of the state are seriously contemplating the proposition of a reserve force organization after the National Guard departs for the border, and the latest reports from Washington would lead one to believe that a declaration of war will soon be forthcoming.

During a war it is absolutely necessary to have a well organized reserve force in each state. The new military law which is effective July 1st, provides for this, but military experts are of the opinion that now is the time to begin preparations for a reserve organization.

As soon as the two brigades leave Springfield for the front it leaves Illinois without a guard or an organized soldiery. Authority for organizing a reserve force must necessarily come from the governor and the chief executive must get his orders from the war department.

On this proposition neither the president nor the governor has taken action and just how soon they will act is not known.

For Volunteers.

It has been suggested by military men of northern Illinois that just as soon as the Sixth regiment leaves for the front an effort will be made to recruit a volunteer organization. There are many young men willing to enlist in a volunteer organization and they will recruit as soon as given an opportunity. This reserve force should be enlisted and put on drill or should immediately after organization, and no time should be lost in attending to the matter.

It is not known how many men it will take to bring peace in Mexico after the war is started and certainly the country should be ready with a reserve organization to draw from in case such an organization is needed.

Realize Needs.

Military men realize the importance of preparedness and what is better preparedness than to be ready with a reserve force fully officered and drilled in time of war, so that when the authorities at the front insist on more men to carry on the campaign there will be a force ready to march to their assistance without delay and disorder?

It is quite likely this matter is being discussed in Washington and when the militia leaves for Mexico men of northern Illinois that just as soon as the Sixth regiment leaves for the front an effort will be made to recruit a volunteer organization. There are many young men willing to enlist in a volunteer organization and they will recruit as soon as given an opportunity. This reserve force should be enlisted and put on drill or should immediately after organization, and no time should be lost in attending to the matter.

Author of "At Good Old Siwash"
THE JUNE BUG.

The June bug deserves an essay all by himself because of his temperament. He is optimistic, impetuous, incorrigible, thoughtless, erratic, noisy and bothersome.

If he could be trained to give a college yell he would pass in the dark for a college freshman, home from vacation.

Scientifically, the June bug is a large brown insect with a solid ivory head and six legs equipped with hooks on the shins, which enable him to hang on like an office holder when he drops into the back hair of the lady next door who is prominent in society, and is calling for the first time.

This is a favorite deed of the J. Bug's. He is not as handsome nor nearly as talented as some other bugs but he moves in the best society and gets into some homes where many a senator would feel bashful.

The June bug travels like an airplane, producing a loud, humming noise and planing with great skill. He also lands like an aviator, by running into something and coming down with a crash. He was born with a purpose and spends his life trying to achieve it. The purpose is to destroy a house by butting it from within. Night after night the June bug pursues this purpose with the utmost earnestness, ramming mirrors, assaulting ceilings, putting dents in lamp chimneys and battering book cases, lying quietly on the floor after each attack until his head has stopped whirling, and he can pry himself off his back. A June bug may come bumping down fifty times in fifty minutes, but this will not prevent him from rising the first time and dashing at the brick mantel piece with a headache and a grim determination.

Scientists have figured that June bugs have expended in attacking the brick walls enough energy to lift the Great Pyramid six inches. This impresses us with the foolishness of the June bug, until we reflect that man has expended enough energy carrying torches in political campaigns to turn the same pyramid over and stand it on its apex.

We may learn a lesson from the cheerfulness and perseverance of the June bug. He has never yet knocked a house down, but he goes into the job each time with increasing vigor. If June bugs could vote they would all be third party Prohibitionists.

The Three "C's" Of Caring For Milk In The Home

Washington, D. C., June 26.—The three "C's" for the proper care of milk in the home, according to the dairy specialists of the U. S. Department of Agriculture, are: Keep Milk: Clean, Cold, Covered.

Milk is a highly perishable food and the length of time it will remain sweet and safe, especially for children, depends, the specialists say, almost entirely upon the constant care it receives from cow to consumer. Milk passes through three agencies—the producer, the dealer, and the consumer. If the first two have done their part, clean, safe milk will be delivered, thoroughly chilled, to the consumer. The consumer's responsibility begins the moment the milk is delivered at his doorstep.

Because milk poured from vessel to vessel on the street is very liable to contamination from dust, manure particles and germs, milk is best delivered in capped bottles. If bottled milk can not be obtained, the housewife should try to have someone in the family receive the milk in a clean, scalded utensil, cover it instantly, and put it without delay into the refrigerator, or the coldest available place. Under no circumstances should an uncovered pitcher, bowl or pan be left out on the porch to receive bulk milk. The vessel, both before and after the milk is poured into it, is accessible to flies and collects particles of dust and dirt.

Even in the case of bottled milk, however, the consumer must see that the bottle is not left out in the heat for a moment longer than is necessary. Milk should be delivered and kept at a temperature of 50 deg. F. or lower—the colder the better. At such temperatures bacteria develop very slowly and milk undergoes little change until consumed. A slight rise in temperature above this point, however, permits bacteria to multiply rapidly and brings about rapid deterioration of the milk, which may render it unfit for ordinary use and make it highly dangerous for babies and little children. For this reason bottled or other milk should not be allowed to remain in a warm place, as on a sunny porch or in a hot kitchen, for a moment longer than is necessary.

Delivery in Milk

In hot weather the best plan is to have the milkman put the milk directly into the refrigerator, because at that time of year milk can not be kept properly without ice. If a refrigerator is not available, provide a small box containing ice, and if ice is unobtainable, provide some tight tins with insulate walls and keep the heat from getting rapidly to the cold milk. A home-made fireless cooker is admirable for this purpose, especially if partially filled with ice. In the absence of any of these devices, arrange with the milkman not to leave the milk in the sun light, but to put it in the coolest, shaded place around the house.

Handling Milk in the Home

In handling milk around the home, do not pour it from one vessel to another until it is to be consumed. Do not let the bottle of milk remain out of the refrigerator a moment longer than is necessary. Keep the milk covered, using paper caps or an inverted tumbler on bottles, or storing it in covered utensils. Any household utensil that is to be used as a vessel for keeping milk should be first cleaned thoroughly and scalded.

Before opening a bottle of milk, wash and wipe the neck and outside of the cap with water and a clean cloth. The little depression on the top of the cap may collect dust or may attract flies. Lift out the cap with a pointed instrument, so that the outside of the cap, which may be contaminated, will not be pushed down into the milk. Each time the milk is to be poured from the bottle it is a wise precaution to wash the neck as described.

Milk in a Refrigerator

The refrigerator where milk is stored should be cleaned regularly, especial care being given to keeping the drip pipe free and clean. The ice rack also should be cleaned and any place where food is kept or milk stored should be scalded occasionally with sal-soda solution. The refrigerator, even though cold, may quickly be contaminated by a few drops of spilled milk, or by small particles of food. No matter how clean the refrigerator, milk should never be kept in an open vessel. As milk ab-

"SPEAR HEAD" AN OLD TIME FAVORITE

The Most Popular Chew for a Third of a Century

PURE, RICH, FRUITY-SWEET

The man who chews gets by far the most wholesome enjoyment and satisfaction out of tobacco, especially if he chews flag tobacco. The rich juices of the leaf are retained in good plugs better than in any other form.

For more than a generation Spear Head has held first place as the favorite high-grade plug chewing tobacco.

This unique distinction is due solely to the wonderful quality and flavor of Spear Head—the richest, mellowest, tastiest chew in the whole world.

Spear Head is the choicest of all red Burley, hand-stemmed and made into mellow-sweet plugs in a perfectly clean, most sanitary factory.

You can't chew the flavor out of Spear Head, because it's a part of the tobacco. That rich, ripe red Burley taste keeps on pleasing you as long as you keep on chewing.

Chew Spear Head and you'll be chewing the purest and most satisfying tobacco that it's possible to make. In 5c and 10c cuts.

soaks odors easily, such food as fish, cabbage, or onions should not be kept in proximity to it.

Clean Empty Bottles

As soon as a milk bottle is emptied, rinse it thoroughly with cold water. Do not return dirty bottles and do not use milk bottles except to hold milk. Returning dirty bottles to the milkman may mean that a few days later either you or your neighbors will get contaminated milk. Milk bottles should never be taken into a sick room. In case of infectious or contagious disease, all bottles should be boiled thoroughly and should not be returned to the dealer without the express permission of the attending physician. Such diseases easily can be made epidemic through regard of this precaution.

Where There Are Children

Care of milk, important for all, is a vital necessity in a home where there are children. It is absolutely essential to the safety of babies. No intelligent mother will leave to an ordinary servant the task of caring for or preparing the milk for her baby. Mothers of small children should get from their own physicians, explicit directions for the proper handling of milk and for cleaning and sterilizing nursing bottles. Milk for babies can not be kept too cold, and too much care can not be given to keeping it clean and covered.

Further information on this subject may be had by writing to the U. S. Department of Agriculture, Washington, D. C., for Farmers' Bulletin 413, "Care of Milk and Its Use in the Home."

THIS WILL INTEREST STOMACH SUFFERERS

Says Indigestion comes from an excess of hydrochloric acid.

A well-known authority states that stomach trouble and indigestion is nearly always due to acidity—acid stomach—and not, as most folks believe, from a lack of digestive juices. He states that an excess of hydrochloric acid in the stomach retards digestion and starts food fermentation, then our meals sour like garbage in a can, forming acid fluids and gases which inflate the stomach like a toy balloon. We then get that heavy, lumpy feeling in the chest, we eructate sour food, belch gas, or have heartburn, flatulence, water-brash, or nausea.

He tells us to lay aside all digestive aids and instead get from any pharmacy four ounces of Jad Salts and take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast while it is effervescent, and furthermore, to continue this for one week. While relief follows the first dose, it is important to neutralize the acidity, remove the gas-making mass, start the liver, stimulate the kidneys and thus promote a free flow of pure digestive juices.

Jad Salts is inexpensive and is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia and sodium phosphate. This harmless salts is used by thousands of people for stomach trouble with excellent results.

A FEW PLATFORM COMPARISONS.

A few comments on the more important planks in the platforms of the two parties will not come amiss at this time.

In regard to Mexico, the republican platform pledges its aid in restoring order and promises to our citizens on or near the border adequate and absolute protection of their lives and property. The democratic platform excuses the occupation by an armed force of a portion of Mexican territory, on the ground of want of staple, responsible government, although Wilson has recognized the Carranza government as a responsible one. It declares that the army must remain there until a repetition of bandit incursions into the United States territory is improbable. The idea of punishing the perpetrators of the Columbus raid has been given up.

In regard to foreign relations, the republican platform declares: "We must perform all our duties and insist upon all our rights as neutrals, without fear and without favor." The democratic platform believes that it is the duty of the United States to join with the other nations in any feasible association that will maintain inviolate the complete security of the highway of the seas. But in two years they have done little or nothing in that direction except to write "notes."

The republican platform calls on all Americans, whether naturalized or native born, to be true to the spirit of America. The democratic platform condemns partisanship, and then attempts to make "Americanism" an issue.

The republican platform declares we must have a strong navy, so strong that no enemy can gain command of the sea. The democratic platform says "we favor" the maintenance of an army fully adequate to protect the nation's rights, and a fixed policy for the constructive development of the navy. The democrats have passed the Hay bill, which is nothing but a prize porker in uniform, and the naval committee has reported a bill which strikes out two first class battleships recommended by the navy department experts.

The republican platform declares, as always, for protection of American industries. "Such protection should protect adequately American industry and American labor." The democratic platform reaffirms its belief in a tariff for revenue only, and unreservedly endorses the Underwood law, although they have repeatedly stated that the law did not have an opportunity to prove its efficacy prior to the war.

The republican platform declares for the thorough and honest enforcement of the civil service law, and pledges the party to a reorganization of this service. The democratic platform reaffirms the declaration of the party for the rigid enforcement of the civil service laws, having created 30,000 offices outside of the civil service law, at an annual cost of $44,000,000 to the taxpayers, since March 4, 1913.

There is not a line in the democratic platform which is not a reminder of the treachery and inefficiency of the party during the last four years. The Baltimore platform of 1912 closes with these words: "Our pledges are made to be kept when in office as well as relied upon during the campaign." It is to be noted that even democratic effrontery was not brazen enough to conclude the St. Louis platform with any such falsehood.

MEDILL McCORMICK FOR CONGRESS.

Medill McCormick has announced his intention of becoming a candidate for the republican nomination for Congressman-at-large from Illinois. Mr. McCormick's candidacy should be highly acceptable to the people of this state for he is a statesman of proven ability. His record at Springfield stamps him as the sort of man whose presence in the house of representatives at Washington would be a credit to Illinois.

Medill McCormick will shortly be a resident of the Thirteenth Congressional district, our district, for he has purchased a large tract of land along Rock river, near Byron, and intends to build his home there, in Ogle county.

A TRULY PATRIOTIC ACTION.

Col. Theodore Roosevelt has won the admiration of the nation by his patriotic action in refusing the Progressive nomination for President and in coming out so strongly in support of Charles E. Hughes, the republican nominee. Colonel Roosevelt has made a very wise political move, although we do not infer that he made the move with any political scheming as the motive. His stock is worth many times its value before the national convention, and his unselfish action gets the approval of every republican.

Federal Inquiry or Railroad Strike?

Faced by demands from the conductors, engineers, firemen and brakemen that would impose on the country an additional burden in transportation costs of $100,000,000 a year, the railroads propose that this wage problem be settled by reference to an impartial Federal tribunal.

With these employees, whose efficient service is acknowledged, the railroads have no differences that could not be considered fairly and decided justly by such a public body.

Railroads Urge Public Inquiry and Arbitration

The formal proposal of the railroads to the employees for the settlement of the controversy is as follows:

"Our conferences have demonstrated that we cannot harmonize our differences of opinion, and that eventually the matters in controversy must be passed upon by other and disinterested agencies. Therefore, we propose that your proposals and the proposition of the railroads be disposed of by one or the other of the following methods:

1. Preferably by submission to the Interstate Commerce Commission, the only tribunal which, by reason of its accumulated information bearing on railway conditions and its control of the revenue of the railways, is in a position to consider and protect the rights and equities of all the interests affected, and to provide additional revenue necessary to meet the added cost of operation in case your proposals are found by the Commission to be just and reasonable; or, in the event the Interstate Commerce Commission cannot, under existing laws, act in the premises, that we jointly request Congress to take such action as may be necessary to enable the Commission to consider and promptly dispose of the questions involved; or
2. By arbitration in accordance with the provisions of the Federal law" (The Newlands Act).

Leaders Refuse Offer and Take Strike Vote

Leaders of the train service brotherhoods, at the joint conference held in New York, June 1-15, refused the offer of the railroads to submit the issue to arbitration or Federal review, and the employees are now voting on the question whether authority shall be given these leaders to declare a nation-wide strike.

The Interstate Commerce Commission is proposed by the railroads as the public body to which this issue ought to be referred for these reasons:

No other body with such an intimate knowledge of railroad conditions has such an unquestioned position in the public confidence.

The rates the railroads may charge the public for transportation are now largely fixed by this Government board.

Out of every dollar received by the railroads from the public nearly one-half is paid directly to the employees as wages; and the money to pay increased wages can come from no other source than the rates paid by the public.

The Interstate Commerce Commission, with its control over rates, is in a position to make a complete investigation and render such decision as would protect the interests of the railroad employees, the owners of the railroads, and the public.

A Question For the Public to Decide

The railroads feel that they have no right to grant a wage preferment of $100,000,000 a year to these employees, now highly paid and constituting only one-fifth of all the employees, without a clear mandate from a public tribunal that shall determine the merits of the case after a review of all the facts.

The single issue before the country is whether this controversy is to be settled by an impartial Government inquiry or by industrial warfare.

Dramatic Notes

PRINCESS THEATRE

"Flames of Vengeance" produced by Mutual, based on a woman's indiscretion, starring Gertrude Robison, Eva Shepard and Sydney Mason will appear at the Princess tonight.

How a moment of indiscretion on her wedding night is paid for by endless years of mental suffering and a wrecked life, is the all-absorbing theme of "The Flames of Vengeance," a heart-gripping, three-act Gaumont Mutual feature. The sight of a former lover appearing unexpectedly on the eve of her wedding awakens memories of the past in the young girl's heart and with the impulsiveness of youth she breaks her troth. Twenty years later the disillusioned woman is seen struggling against the world and its demands in her efforts to rear her daughter to womanhood. Iva Shepard, famous Mutual "vampire," lives this part in "Flames of Vengeance." She is extremely convincing in the first part of the feature, appearing as a fresh and attractive girl just out of her teens; but the characterization of the bitter disappointed woman of forty affords this emotional actress an excellent opportunity for effective dramatic acting.

Also on the program will appear a comedy entitled "Germanic Love," with Madge Kirby in the title role.

One of the most interesting things in the whole forty-three acres of plant where the Mitchell Six is built is the instrument that made this record.

It diagrams the action of various types of springs—in actual road work.

Number one is the record of a half-elliptic rear spring.

Number two is the record of a three-quarter elliptic.

Number three is the record of the ordinary cantilever spring.

Number four is the record of the Mitchell Six improved and exclusive cantilever springs. The sudden "kick-up" is eliminated—and all the small shocks are absorbed.

The easiest riding car in the world—and we will prove it to you over any road you like.

THE GIRL AND THE GAME

A Story of Mountain Railroad Life

by FRANK H. SPEARMAN

Novelized From the Moving Picture Play of the Same Name Produced by the Signal Film Corporation.

SYNOPSIS.

Little Helen Holmes, daughter of General Holmes, railroad man, is rescued from imminent danger on a scenic railroad by George Storm, a new boy. Grown to young womanhood, Helen saves Storm, now a fireman, and Robert Seagrue, promoter, from a threatened collision. Safe-breakers employed by Seagrue steal General Holmes' survey plans of the cut off line for the Tidewater, fatally wounding the general and escape. Her father's estate badly involved by his death, Helen goes to work on the Tidewater. Helen recovers the survey plans from Seagrue, and though they are taken from her, finds an accidentally made proof of the survey blueprint. Storm is employed by Rhinelander. Spike, befriended by Helen, in his turn saves her and the right-of-way contracts when Seagrue kidnaps her. Helen and Storm win for Rhinelander a race against Seagrue for right-of-way. Helen, Storm and Rhinelander rescue Spike from Seagrue's men. Spike steals records to protect Rhinelander, and Storm and Helen save Spike from death in the burning courthouse. Vein in Superstition mine pinches out. Seagrue sells it and sells it to Rhinelander. The vein is relocated.

THIRTEENTH INSTALLMENT

A FIGHT FOR A FORTUNE

He turned to the telephone. Spike and Helen had reached the rooms at the hotel when Helen heard the ring of the telephone. She answered the call. Listening, dumfounded, she did not tell Spike what she heard, but with her face somewhat blanched and Rhinelander's words ringing in her ears, she hung up the receiver. "Get the stock from the safety deposit box," he had directed, "and I will use that as temporary security until I can replace the money."

Seagrue shook his head. "No, Mr. Rhinelander," he said slowly, "that won't do. I must have legal tender, and have it today, or our contract doesn't go."

Helen, with Spike as her escort, reached the bank only to find it closed as she had feared. The watchman, despite her appeals, refused them admittance. But a little obstacle such as that was not a serious deterrent to Spike. He had defied the law too long to be balked now in the interests of justice and fair play. He had been a malefactor with the law against him; he brushed aside all scruples now in taking the role of a benefactor with the law still against him. The watchman had his way. "If the case is as bad as you say," Spike muttered to Helen, "we've got to do something."

Helen shook her head despairingly. "It may mean millions, Spike," she exclaimed. "What can we do?" In her distress she clasped her hands.

"Do," echoed Spike scornfully. "Go in and open the box and get your property—there's nothing else to do."

"But how?" cried Helen, wide-eyed with perplexity.

Spike tossed his head. It was set high above a pair of swinging broad shoulders, and whenever Spike shook his head in that way, Helen knew some suggestion was coming. He bent forward and pointed his finger at her to emphasize his words. "You put the stock in the box, didn't you?" She nodded a half-frightened assent. "That," he continued stiffly, "was your business. Now, you want to get it out, don't you?" She nodded once more. "That," he declared with much positiveness, "is my business."

A moment later, at the side of the bank, Helen, frightened to death, followed Spike through an unguarded door. He led the way hastily and stealthily to the vault, and Helen, with her key, opened Rhinelander's box. It was while they were thus feloniously abstracting their own property that the watchman saw them. He turned in an alarm. At the police station where it registered, the sergeant called out the men and they started on the jump for the bank.

Helen, in the interval, had taken the securities from the box and showed them to Spike. As they turned to leave, the watchman, re-enforced by the officers, pounced down on them. Helen, desperate over the situation, upbraided the watchman.

A wordy discussion followed. But Helen and Spike were started for the station, where more developments had already taken place. The victim of the hold-up, in response to the sergeant's message, had arrived, and on having the suspects, Ward and Adams, paraded before him, was unable to identify Seagrue's retainers. In fact, he distinctly declared these were not the men that had eaten all his free lunch and robbed him.

The chief, refusing to be satisfied, continued to ask questions. His instinct concerning criminals seemed to tell him that this pair were crooks, and, if not answering to one charge, should justly be held to await another. While this was going on in the office of the chief, Helen and Spike were ushered, with the complaining watchman, into the booking room. Helen demanded the use of the telephone, and in spite of the serious charge lodged against her something in her bright eyes or her demeanor satisfied the sergeant she was no criminal, and he handed her the phone from his desk. She called Rhinelander up at Seagrue's rooms.

When the bell rang, Seagrue told Rhinelander to answer it, and from Helen at the station the latter learned of the plight she and Spike were in.

No explanation that Helen and Spike could make moved the desk sergeant in any degree. He had directed the officers to take the two to separate cells when a commotion was heard in the hallway and Rhinelander dashed into the room. In the twinkling of an eye the aspect of everything changed. In Rhinelander, the conscientious watchman recognized the president of his own safe deposit company, and when the great transportation magnate rushed up to Helen to extend his sympathy and nodded, as an old acquaintance, to Spike, the humble watch dog of the safe deposit vault gasped. He waited just a minute, and in an auspicious lull in the conversation between Rhinelander and Helen, Spike standing at attention, the watchman pushed into the group to ask whether he had made a mistake.

"No mistake at all," said Rhinelander heartily and reassuringly, and to the watchman's great relief. "You did exactly right. You didn't know these people. They had no business in there. But they were there not only to get my securities out of a box, but to get me out of a box!" The watchman stared. "So"—Rhinelander turned to the sergeant in explanation—"there's really nobody to blame, sergeant, except that your men and you have a box of cigars coming from somebody and it might as well be me as anybody else."

The sergeant scratched his head. "This is the queerest mix-up I ever struck," he muttered, perplexed.

At Rhinelander's suggestion he sent for the chief. The moment the latter appeared everything was made right.

Within his own room the chief had a knotted problem. He had been trying in every way to extract some damaging admission from Ward and Adams, but unable to do so, had reluctantly dismissed the pair, satisfied that if justice had her due the two would be behind the bars.

Just outside the police station, Helen and Rhinelander—Spike listening—were conferring as to what should be done in the awkward emergency facing them. How could they now save their property from Seagrue's eager clutches? They moved away together slowly, just as Ward and Adams, having got the real handbag from the sergeant, walked out of the station. The two men encountered the halting and perplexed trio. Rhinelander's roving eye fell on the bag as Ward passed him. He cried out and pointed. Ward and Adams turned nervously. "Stop thief!" yelled Rhinelander, making for them.

Seagrue's men recognized their victim. Away they dashed, Helen and the two men after them at top speed. Across a city street a block away the hind end of a long freight train was rapidly pulling. Ward and Adams headed for it.

Farther down the line, at a Santa Fe crossing, a Tidewater passenger train had slowed, and for this Helen, Rhinelander and Spike made. But the excitement and speed were telling on Rhinelander, who was not in the class and training of his companions. He weakened. Spike stopped to help him along. In that brief interval Helen made the side of a coach as the Tidewater passenger train picked up speed. Her companions could not overtake her, but Rhinelander hastily chartered a passing automobile, and away he went with Spike after the two trains. It was a triangular race, but the passenger train, on a parallel track, gained rapidly on the freight.

Helen had already climbed to the coach roof, and with both trains running, she watched the gap lessening between the passenger and the freight that bore the two thieves on the adjoining track. As she found her own train rapidly overhauling the other, she made up her mind what to do. The moment her coach pulled abreast of the last box car in the long drag she jumped from the top of the coach to the top of the freight car, landed safely, regained her feet, and looked over the side of the train for the men she was after.

Within the box car where they had taken refuge, Ward and Adams were trying to open Rhinelander's bag. They had succeeded in negotiating the lock when, to their consternation, Helen, through the open side-door, swung down and in on them from the roof. The thieves jumped to their feet. But before Adams was up, Helen had knocked him over again, and as Ward jumped at her, she managed to shoot out her foot at the handbag. By a fortunate chance she kicked it cleanly out of the car. Freeing herself from Ward's clutches with an energetic blow, she sprang to the door herself and jumped after the bag from the fast-moving car to the ground.

Adams, when Helen pushed him over, had struck his head against an iron bar and he lay on the car floor almost unconscious. Ward turned to him the minute Helen was gone. "Wake up!" he shouted. "We've got to get out of here."

"What's up?" demanded Adams, groggily.

Waiting their chance when their train slowed down in passing the next station, the two men jumped out of the box car. Down the line Ward saw the bridge they had passed when Helen sprang from the car. "That girl can't be far off yet," she muttered. "She may be hunting for the bag. If we get there quick enough, we can get hold of it ourselves."

Helen, running fast as she could, searched the right of way keenly. Help was nearer to her than she was aware of. But she had eyes for nothing beyond her search, and, finally, hardly a stone's throw from the bridge itself, she saw the bag lying on the gravel.

The nearest station was to the north. Helen began to retrace her steps, thinking to telephone or to get somehow in touch with Rhinelander from there. Hastening on, she heard her name called, and, looking up, was astonished to see Spike waving his hand at her from the bridge just ahead. He and Rhinelander, following the train in the machine, had seen her spring from the box car.

She started to run forward to join Spike. But Ward and Adams had come up. Seeing Helen approach, they hid, and when she passed them they seized and overpowered her and dragged the bag from her hands.

Not without stout resistance on her part. She fought the two with blows and screams, and Spike, hearing the commotion, ran to where he could slip over the side of the bridge and drop to the tracks. Shouting loudly as he scrambled to his feet, he ran to where Ward and Adams were fighting Helen, who had again got her hands on the bag. But when Spike reached the scene the encounter was short.

Ward, the more powerful of Seagrue's men, engaged him furiously, and, as a boxer, would have put him out, had not Spike clenched and slammed the big fellow heavily to the ground. He jumped at Adams before Ward could come back, and the two crooks, seeing the game lost, took to their heels.

Spike turned to see what damage had been done to Helen. She had the bag safely in hand and they started together to join Rhinelander.

The bag was now committed to Spike for safekeeping, and Rhinelander headed the car for the city in an effort to reach Seagrue's quarters quickly with the payment. Burning the tires all the way into town, he pulled up with a jerk before Seagrue's apartment and the three, alighting from the car, hastened up to his rooms.

Seagrue, expecting the return of Ward and Adams with their loot, caught his breath when he faced Rhinelander and his escort at the door. Rhinelander he could account for. Helen, he was not at a great loss to account for; but to see the craning neck, square jaw, straight nose and cold, gray eye of Spike in the twilight of the hallway was too much for even Seagrue's poise. When they pushed their way in upon him, he made hardly any attempt to resist. "I—I wasn't looking for you," he stammered.

Rhinelander laughed. "No!"—understand. However, it's all right. A couple of your men, Seagrue, had this bag in hand"—he held up the leather grip for Seagrue's inspection—"to bring to you." Rhinelander's eyes were sparkling with the zest of victory. "They were detained, Seagrue," he went on, enjoying to the full the consternation of the breathless rascal before him. "In fact, the two met with a little accident." He nodded toward Helen as the little accident, herself. "The police are looking for the pair now," explained Rhinelander, jesting. "But we thought it only neighborly to bring the bag in, ourselves. Especially since you seem to consider that our title to the Superstition mine rests on your receiving the actual cash today for the second payment."

While speaking, Rhinelander had gone to the table, thrown the bag open and was tossing the packages of currency out. "There's your money, Seagrue—twenty-five thousand dollars. Count it, Seagrue, and give me a receipt."

SUGGESTIONS TO SICK WOMEN

How Many Are Restored To Health.

First.—Almost every operation in our hospitals performed upon women becomes necessary through neglect of such symptoms as backache, irregular and painful periods, displacements, pain in the side, burning sensation in the stomach, bearing down pains, nervousness, dizziness and sleeplessness.

Second.—The medicine most successful in relieving female ills is Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. It regulates and strengthens the organism; it overcomes disease.

For forty years it has been making women strong and well, relieving backache, nervousness, ulceration and inflammation, weakness, displacements, irregularity and periodic pains. It has also proved invaluable in preparing for childbirth and the Change of Life.

Third.—The great number of unsolicited testimonials on file at the Pinkham Laboratory at Lynn, Mass., many of which are from time to time published by permission, are proof of the value of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, in the treatment of female ills.

Fourth.—Every ailing woman in the United States is cordially invited to write to the Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co. (confidential), Lynn, Mass., for special advice. It is free, will bring you health and may save your life.

AUSTRIANS ARE IN WILD FLIGHT

Italy Using Cavalry for First Time Pursuing Them.

LATINS CAPTURE MORE TOWNS

Vienna Claims Russ Lines Are Broken in Lutsck Sector—British Pierce German Lines in Ten Places—French Retake Positions at Thiamont—Germans Gain in East.

Milan, June 28.—For three days the Austro-Hungarian army which invaded Italy has been in headlong flight, abandoning wounded, guns and stores. For the first time since hostilities opened Italy is using cavalry for pursuit of the enemy.

An order to Austrian troops saying "In Italy good wines and beautiful women are waiting for us," has been found upon a wounded Austrian officer.

Italians Take More Towns.

Rome June 28.—Following up their recent successes on the Trentino front the Italians have driven back the Austrians still farther, the war office announces. The Italians have captured Posina, Arsiero, Mounts Flara, Taverle, Spitz, Kesslerle and Cima della Saette and the crests on the Caldera and Campanella.

Pierce German Lines at 10 Points.

London, June 28.—The British, French and Belgian offensive on the western fronts is continuing with unabated activity and gains for the allies at numerous points are reported in official statements. London briefly reports the German lines pierced at ten points. Berlin again makes specific mention of the violence of the allied attacks, particularly in the vicinity of the Somme, though claiming that practically all the allied efforts resulted in failure.

At Verdun the French claim the recapture of more trenches in the Thiamont region.

Break the Russians' Front.

London, June 28.—According to the latest Vienna communication, the Austrians have effected a breach in the Russian front in the Lutsck salient near the Svidniki bridgehead, an important position on the direct road to Kovel. This statement is in contradiction to the Petrograd report, but it probably was issued later. Otherwise than in the Lutsck region, nothing, side has made any headway in this theater of the war.

The Times correspondent at the Russian headquarters at this front explains the facility with which the Germans can reinforce their line and says this makes the maintaining of the Russian positions difficult.

Germans Claim Offensive Gains.

Berlin, June 28.—Continuing their successful counter offensive against the Russians the Germans stormed enemy lines west of Sokul taking several hundred prisoners, it was officially announced.

Intense British artillery fire on both sides of the Somme was reported. French attacks west of Thiamont and southwest of Fort Vaux were without result.

TY COBB GOES AFTER FANTormentor in Grandstand Causes "Peach" to Start Hostilities.

St. Louis, June 28.—A small-sized plot, which started when Ty Cobb took exception to the remarks of a fan occupying the box over the Tiger bench, delayed the game for a few minutes just before the start of the ninth inning.

Angered by the spectator's remarks the Peach went to the box, grabbed hold of the railing and attempted to climb in, but was prevented by his team mates. Ty pointed out the offender to the police and he left the box.

SPLIT OVER MILITIA RELIEF

Conferees Unable to Agree on Million Dollar Appropriation.

Washington, June 28.—Conferees of the senate and house on the Hay resolution to draft national guardsmen into the federal service were unable to agree on the question of including a million dollars relief appropriation for dependent families of those so drafted, and a disagreement on that section was ordered reported to both houses.

CAMPBELL GETS REPRIEVE

Governor Dunne Grants Extension to "Chicken Joe" for Appeal.

Springfield, Ill., June 28.—Governor Dunne granted another reprieve to "Chicken Joe" Campbell, murderer of Mrs. Edmund M. Allen, wife of former warden of Joliet.

The reprieve suspends sentence to Oct. 13, for the purpose of giving him an opportunity to appeal.

Must Raise $25,000,000 a Day.
London, June 28.—In an interview Sir George Paish, the famous British financial expert, says Britain needs to raise $25,000,000 daily for the war. The power to do is problematical, he added.

A CRY FOR HELP

LOTS OF IT IN DIXON BUT DAILY GROWING LESS

The kidneys often cry for help. Not another organ in the whole body more delicately constructed; Not one more important to health.

The kidneys are the filters of the blood.

When they fail the blood becomes foul and poisonous.

There can be no health where there is poisoned blood.

Backache is one of the frequent indications of kidney trouble.

It is often the kidneys cry for help.

F. K. Chare, tailor, 1204 First St., Dixon, says: "I had a dull ache in the small of my back, right across my kidneys. I had heard Doan's Kidney Pills highly recommended, so I got some at Leake Bros. Co.'s Drug store. They removed the pains in my back and I have had no kidney trouble since."

Price 50c, at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Kidney Pills—the same that Mr. Chare had. Foster-Milburn Co., Props., Buffalo, N. Y.

During the evening they presented Mr. and Mrs. Hicks with a fine golden oak arm rocking chair as a token of their regard for the young couple.
